

Respecting Diversity

For any business to be successful, Diversity within the workplace is far more than avoiding incorrect behavior to certain protected groups.

The fact is that different people providing different viewpoints can greatly enhance an organizations ability to withstand changes, avoid mistakes and provide ideas, alternatives and solutions resulting in a stronger product and a stronger organization.

Join Terry Bass for this very real world presentation on

- Embracing Diversity isn't just about being nice to people of different race, gender, faith or sexual orientation.
- The overwhelming business costs of exclusion.
- Where building an atmosphere beyond HR/Legal requirements can build a healthier organization and stronger product/service offerings.
- The communication needed to drive your organization toward truly Respecting Diversity and maintaining that message throughout the business day.

This topic can be presented in speaking (1/2 - 1 1/2 hour) or workshop format.

About Terry Bass

Terry left the corporate world in 2005 as National Training Manager of a subsidiary of Eastman Kodak and formed CHADONS Resources. As a business coach located in the Chicagoland area, he helps people and organizations of all sizes succeed.

Terry coaches, speaks and provides important skill development workshops and training over a range of areas. Whether coaching, speaking or training, Terry drives real world sensibilities in a fun, dynamic, thought provoking way.

Terry's quirky logo below represents his view that everyone has ideas, dreams and visions of where they would like to end up. He views his purpose is to support them in reaching that vision.

For more information, including additional topics that Terry speaks and provides workshops on, you can go to www.chadons.com
To contact CHADONS, call 773-769-1992 or email at terry@chadons.com

